I cannot express adequately what an amazing book MsBy Kathy BrysonI cannot express adequately what an amazing book Ms. Teutsch has put together.It truly has the potential of impacting millions of marginalized women and children around the world.These are the types of things that can transform lives. We often think solutions to poverty requiremuch MONEY. The world would be a much better place if we could join together to promote accessto all these wonderful low-cost appropriate technologies for everyone. The women themselves, whengiven a chance, will be the ones to ensure that their communities, their families, their babies have whatthey discover in this book. Thank you so much, Ms. Teutsch, for your labor of love! And for putting the picture ofan EMPOWERED woman on the cover!! You cannot peruse this book without being inspired to know how manysimple things can be done to address very real problems of poverty.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Positive Change- Brava!By Barbara Stark-Nemon - author Even in Darkness- a novelEvery once in a while, a book comes along that is so beautiful, so rich in content, and makes you feel so much better about the possibilities for positive change in the world, that you want to tell everyone you know about it. Betsy Teutsch's 100 Under $100 — One Hundred Tools for Empowering Global Women is that kind of book. Designed to feature poverty alleviating solutions with eco-smart technologies and other innovative ideas in the poorest regions of the world, 100 under $100 is a joy to hold in your hands. Its gorgeous photographs, well laid-out sections, well-written descriptions, and helpful sidebar icons make it easy to find more information or act to support the many fascinating initiatives in the areas of health, energy, hygiene, domestic technology, farming, construction, transportation, communication, finance and legal tools. Featuring these stories of women as successful change agents offers hope for alleviating global poverty. Brava Betsy Teutsch!

By Customer Betsy Teutsch's book 100 Under $100 has provided our non-profit with many valuable tools that can be quickly and easily implemented. I would recommend this book to anyone that is looking for simple and affective ways to empower women to raise them from poverty. While we were already using some of the solutions included in this book, this valuable resource has given us the information to implement more as we work with women in our programs. I love this book and continue to learn from it every time I open it. Thank you Betsy Teutsch for compiling all of this information into one book.

100 Under $100: One Hundred Tools for Empowering Global Women is a comprehensive look at effective, low-cost solutions for helping women in the Global South out of poverty. Most books on this subject focus on one problem and one solution; author Betsy Teutsch instead spreads her net wide, sharing one hundred successful, proven paths out of poverty in eleven different sectors — including tech, public health, law, finance, and more — in a visually striking book full of images of vibrant, strong women farmers, health practitioners, entrepreneurs, and humanitarian tech stars doing exciting, cutting-edge work. Eye-opening and compelling, 100 Under $100 is an accessible entry point for globally-attuned readers excited about using a broad range of tools to empower women and help alleviate poverty in the developing world.

In 100 Under $100, writer, artist and activist Betsy Teutsch showcases creative, low-cost tools that are helping the world's most impoverished women improve their lives. You'll learn about $1 eye glasses, eco-toilet biogesters, biochar briquettes, and bike-powered machines to pump water or shell corn. Inspiring yet practical, lavishly illustrated and loaded with suggestions for reader engagement, this book is a goldmine for entrepreneurs, designers, philanthropists, and all who seek to expand opportunities for global women. I loved reading this book.

— Marc Gunther, Editor at Large, Guardian Sustainable Business US

Global health is the most rapidly expanding and exciting area of public health. 100 Under $100 is a fascinating toolbox that will enthuse and empower public health students and professionals. This book effectively translates usual theory-based curricular content to a virtual DIY learning lab. The range of doable and affordable tools for energy, sanitation, nutrition, agriculture, health, finance and law will stimulate many to act positively to alleviate global poverty and gender-based inequalities.

— Frank Franklin, MD, MPH, PhD, Professor Emeritus of Public Health

Beyond being an engaging and inspirational read, 100 Under $100 provides tangible ways of creating women's empowerment opportunities globally. In smart and accessible prose, Betsy Teutsch aptly underscores the powerful impact an organization can have if it takes into account the complex needs of the whole person. Teutsch's 100 Under $100 proves to be an invaluable resource for those looking to dedicate their lives — or a few dollars — to the cause of women's empowerment worldwide.

— Kennedy Odede, Founder CEO of Shining Hope for Communities (SHOFCO)

The book is fantastic! 100 under $100 showcases human ingenuity solving seemingly intractable problems in elegant and sustainable ways. I felt my world expanding as I pored through the ideas that Betsy Teutsch has collected. What a valuable teaching tool - with writing so clear and accessible, students will be able to grasp complex problems and creative solutions; teachers will appreciate the endless ideas for service learning and meaningful involvement!

— Amy J. Cohen, returned Peace Corps Volunteer, 20-year Middle School Social Studies educator, Director of Education, History Making Productions

Women do the majority of the work in many communities of the global south. Betsy Teutsch's book of 100 tools is a smart and effective approach to building local capacity. Grouped into eleven sections ranging from health, to subsistence farming to legal practices, the choice of tools is as insightful as it is practical, as interesting as it is important. Those new to this subject will find a heartening introduction. Those with more experience are unlikely to be aware of the full range of tools on offer.

— Professor Thomas Jacobson, Director, Master of Science in Globalization and Development Communication, Temple University

Great job! What a resource! Betsy Teutsch has assembled a fantastic guide for all who are dedicated to building a better world, especially for women. Business students interested in social enterprise will particularly appreciate the scope of this comprehensive guide showing that solutions to our biggest challenges, from poverty to the environment, are possible.

— Dr. Linda Scott, DP World Chair for Entrepreneurship and Innovation at Saïum's Business School, University of Oxford and founder of Power Shift, the Oxford Forum for Women in the World Economy

Betsy Teutsch has found some brilliant yet simple tools that can used in real-life settings to improve the lives of women challenged by poverty. While the writing is accessible to the lay reader and the examples selected are aimed at specific problems, the scope is sufficiently broad that even the most tech-oriented and development-savvy folks will find something new. The photos brilliantly illustrate the many faces of women who benefit from using these tools, and help make this book a pleasure to read.” —Susan Holck, M.D., 30-year global public health veteran, former World Health Organization Director of Reproductive Health, Geneva

“I LOVE this book. As a mother of a preemie who was the first in our NICU to do Kangaroo Mother Care, a lactation consultant, a feminist, an activist, philanthropist, and global citizen, the book resonated with me on multiple levels. My experience with collective giving through Dining For Women gives me perspective to appreciate people's power to make an impact. 100 Under $100 has immense power because the ideas are ideas anyone can support. And, of course, I love that DFW has supported many of the featured initiatives.” —Marsha Wallace, Co-Founder, Dining For Women

100 Under $100 is a formidable accomplishment. It should be mandated reading for people in the NGO and aid worlds; it is full of interesting information, valuable to everyone who cares about conditions in the developing world. Teutsch's writing is clear and succinct, and the organization is very reader-friendly. I especially like the book's identifiers — positives in green and negatives in red — as well as the action-oriented notes at the bottom of each entry. And the photos enliven it all!” —Brigid Blake, African Sisters Education Collaborative/Sisters Leadership Development Initiative
