From Routledge : Theorizing Transition: The Political Economy of Post-Communist Transformations before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Theorizing Transition: The Political Economy of Post-Communist Transformations:

Theorizing Transition provides a comprehensive examination of the economic, political, social and cultural transformations in post-Communist countries and an important critique of transition theory and policy. The authors create the basis of a theoretical understanding of transition in terms of a political economy of capitalist development. The diversity of forms and complexities of transition are examined through a wide range of examples from post-Soviet countries and comparative studies from countries such as Vietnam and China. Theorizing Transition challenges many of the comfortable assumptions unleashed by the euphoria of democratisation and the triumphalism of market capitalism in the early 1990s and shows transition to be much more complex than mainstream theory suggests.

"The collection of articles in the book presents us with new intellectual perspectives on transition, including 'political economy, feminism, evolutionary economics, and new cultural theory...Indeed, the editors have assembled a fascinating collection of theoretical frameworks and original case studies that not only depart from, but challenge, neoliberal analyses of transition. Combined in one volume, they are a fantastic resource and a great achievement.'"-- Marianna Pavlovskaya "Economic Geograpy About the Author Adrian Smith is Lecturer at the University of Sussex.
